GOVERNMENT NOTICE NO. 45 OF 2010

Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Land Act, 2010

(Circulated by the Authority of the Minister responsible for Local Government and Chieftainship Affairs)

1. The proposed reform

The Land Act 2010 proposes the consolidation of the Land Act 1979 amendments and related laws. It also introduces reforms in land administration and land tenure security with a view to promote efficiency in land services and enhance use of land as an economic asset in Lesotho. In a nutshell the Act repeals the 1979 Land Act.

2. The Current Position

Research, consultations and practice have proven that the land tenure system and its administration under the 1979 Land Act are not responsive to the economic needs of the country. It is perceived to be costly, slow, inefficient, restrictive and not transparent. The end results are that registered land rights are not provided to the majority of citizens and this hampers investments and creates dysfunctional land markets. The current tenure system does not also bring much revenue to the state. Furthermore, the following have been found to be some of the shortcomings in the 1979 Land Act –

- (a) limitation of land holding to foreigners - section 6(c) as amended by section 4 of the Land Amendment Act No. 27 of 1986. This section is to the economic detriment of the country;

- (b) inefficient control of growth of urban and pen-urban areas and the absence of planning creates problems for the creation of infrastructure;
- (c) land disputes not disposed off quickly, Land Tribunal centralized in Maseru and its jurisdiction limited to certain cases - section 64 of the Land Act 1979;
- (d) single plot not capable of being held by more than one title holder;
- (e) cumbersome procedures which lead to inefficient land administration services - section 35 of the Land Act 1979;
- (f) lack of land tenure security;
- (g) numerous amendments to the 1979 Act which render it not user friendly;
- (h) in equality between boy and girl child and lack of protection of minor orphans;
- (i) lack of information to the public on land matters;
- (j) absence of land holdings and cadastral database;
- (k) no provisions criminalising corrupt practices by officials and authorities in rendering of land services and issuance of land documents.

3. Rationale/objectives to be achieved through the Land Act 2010

The intention of this Act is to address the following issues –

- (a) regularisation will ease provision of access roads and utility services. Adjudication on the other hand will formalise settlements and this will reduce disputes;
- (b) speedy disposal of land matters through creation of specialised Land Courts is necessary so that economic activities on land are not hampered;

- (c) secured titles will encourage people to develop their properties and use their properties as economic assets;
- (d) all land allottees upon allocation of land will have documentary evidence in a form of a certificate;
- (e) land records will be updated;
- (f) there will be greater efficiency in the conduct of land transactions;
- (g) land market will be improved as there will be more players and more leases;
- (h) there will be gender balance in land dealings;
- (i) there will be fair and prompt compensation following expropriation of land;
- (j) protection and security to orphans who become vulnerable upon death of the parents.

3.1 Consultations with stakeholders

The Land Act 2010 builds on research which was carried out overtime in an endeavour to improve the land administration laws and policy in Lesotho. It incorporates among others the findings of the Late Chief Magistrate L. Mapetla's Land Policy Review Commission of 1987, the recommendation of Justice Ramodibedi's Land Policy Review Commission of 2000 and the views gathered from the Land Forums of 2007/2008. The findings of all these studies revealed that the 1979 Land Act has some shortcomings which promote unequal distribution of land and also hinder utilization of land as an economic asset. Following the production of the draft Land Bill 2009 consultations were made with relevant stakeholders. The first exercise was held at Victoria Hotel on the 3rd and 4th April, 2009 and it involved amongst others; the bankers, chambers of commerce, law administration officials, private surveyors, private developers, estate agents educators, government ministries and departments, local authorities, chiefs, Non-Governmental Organizations, donor based international organizations. The sensitization session was held with members of the National Assembly in their capacity as representatives of the electorate. The last one was with members of the Senate.

The most sensitive issue which came out of all these sensitization sessions is land holdings by foreign investors. The general feeling was that if there are no strict conditions or restrictions in their being allowed to hold land in Lesotho, this might jeopardize the interests of Basotho.
